DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 2-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In line 1 of claims 2-9, "turbo decoder" apparently should be "SISO decoder."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,065,149 to Yamanaka (hereafter "Yamanaka").

Yamanaka discloses a receiver with a soft-output Viterbi algorithm (SOVA) decoder (1) and a CRC decoder (2) for decoding "codewords selected from a known set of codewords” of a CRC code. Yamanaka’s SOVA decoder requires an Add-Compare-Select (ACS) unit that serves as a “metric aggregator for receiving and manipulating branch and state metric pairs.” Yamanaka’s CRC decoder serves as a “codeword resolver for resolving the manipulated branch and state metric pairs to a codeword in the set.” As no normalization in the SOVA decoder is mentioned by Yamanaka, the CRC decoding is presumably performed “in accordance with an un-normalized likelihood relationship between the received branch and state metrics pairs and the known set of codewords.”

5. Claims 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 7,023,934 to Tran et al (hereafter “Tran”).

Tran discloses (Fig. 51) logic for a “MIN\* operator,” including a “subtractor” (carry-sum adder 5107) for performing an A-B operation, a “correction module” (negative value LUT 5709, positive value LUT 5111, MUX 5115, and MUX 5105). A sign bit ( $\Delta_s$ ) generator of the “subtractor” signal line carrying the sign bit of the A-B result is a “multiplexer controller.”

Regarding claim 12, each of Tran’s LUTs apparently have more than four entries.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamanaka.

Yamanaka does not disclose details of an ACS unit required for the SOVA decoding. Official Notice is taken that storing pairs of ACS state metrics in 8-bit registers and implementing metric registers with D flip-flops was conventional for Viterbi decoding at the time the invention was made. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement an ACS unit required by Yamanaka's SOVA decoder using 8-bit registers for storing state metrics. Such an implementation would have been obvious because storing pairs of ACS state metrics in 8-bit registers and implementing metric registers with D flip-flops was already conventional for Viterbi decoding.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 4-9 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. Claim 13 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
